MISCELLANY.

TWICE SMITTEN.

O doubly-bowed and bruised reed, What can I offer in thy need! O heart, twice broken with its grief, What words of mine can bring relief? O soul, o'erwhelmed with woe again, How can I soothe thy bitter pain! Abashed and still, I stand and see Thy sorrow's awful majesty.

Only dumb silence may convey That which my lip can never say.

I cannot comfort thee at all; On the Great Comforter I call:

Praying that he may make thee see How near he hath been drawn to thee For unto man the angel guest Still comes through gates of suffering best; And most our Heavenly Father cares, For whom he smites, not whom he spares

So, to his chastening meekly bow, Thou art of his beloved now!—Phebe Cary.

- 12. North Carolina, November 21, 1789. 13. Rhode Island, May 29, 1790.

The Convention of Delaware met, adopted the Constitution unanimously, and adjourn ed in a single day.

The Convention of Pennsylvania adopted the Constitution by a vote of 46 yeas to 23

The Convention of New Jersey adopted the Constitution unanimously.

The Convention of Massachusetts was composed of about 350 members, and when it met was opposed to adopting the Constitution. The majority for its ratification was only 19 votes.

When the Convention of New York met, the opponents of the Constitution were about two-thirds of the whole body. Alexan der Hamilton's logic and eloquence secured a majority for it.

North Carolina remained out of the Union more than eight months after the new government went into operation. The Convenbill of rights and certain amendments ought to be laid before Congress and the Convention that might be called for amending the Constitution, previous to its ratification by the State of North Carolina," and the Convention was then dissolved.

Rhode Island remained out of the Union for upwards of thirteen months. The General Assembly instead of calling a Conven tion to consider the Constitution referred that instrument to a direct vote of the peo. ple at their town meeting. Only 232 voted for the adoption of the Constitution; 2,708 voted against it.

Subsequently the Legislature called a Convention, the Governor giving the casting vote for so doing, in the smaller branch of the Legislature. The Convention adopted ception in every profession of loyalty. the Constitution by a majority of two votes, the year being 34 and the nays 32.

CHARACTER. -There is a glare about worldly success, which is very apt to dazzle men's eyes. When we see a man rising in the world; thriving in business; successful in his speculations; if he be a man out of our own line, who does not come into competition with us, so as to make us jealous of him, we are too apt to form a foolishly high opinion of his merits. We are apt to say within ourselves, "what a wonderful man this must be, to rise so rapidly!" forgetting with neither weight nor value in them-rise the soonest and the easiest. In like manner, it is not the truly great and good man, generally speaking, who rises the most rapidly into wealth and notice. A man may be sharp, active, quick, dexterous, cunning; he may be ever on the watch for opportunities to push his fortunes; a man of this kind can prevailed in the proceedings of the General hardly fail of getting on in the world; yet with all this, he may not have a grain of real greatness about him. He may be all I have described, and yet have no greatness of therefore resolved; mind, no greatness of soul. He may be utterly without sympathy and fellow-feeling for others; he may be utterly devoid of all true wisdom; he may be without piety and 1862, for any diocese to decide for herself nity. #### South Carolina and the Constitutional Amendment.

The Lynchburg Virginian makes the folowing remarks on the adoption by South abolishing slavery:

It has been said that truth is stranger than fiction. What invention of fiction was ever more marvelous than the declaration would have been four or five years ago that on the 13th day of November, 1865, South Carolina would, of her own accord, abolish slavery Who would have believed it? The man who dared utter the prophecy would have been considered a madman. And yet it has been done; the Palmetto State, through her as sembled Legislature, has solemnly declared hat slavery is forever prohibited within her

That proud and fiery little State has yielded up her cherished institution on the altar of Union and conciliation. If the skeptics of the North need stronger evidence of the sincerity of the South than this, what would they ask? Would they believe though one rose from the dead to attest the honesty of men will sell every description of property they of the North need stronger evidence of the Southern professions? The Legislature of Kentucky has generously made appropriations to supply Agents to attendto the claims of our soldiers without expense to them; and all soldiers, discharged or otherwise. and the legal heirs of deceased soldiers, will consult their own interest materially by employing these Agents, who will promply adjust their claims with the Government. Col. Chas. D. Pennebaker, Military Agent of Centucky, residing at Washington City, will promptly present and realize all claims of Kentucky soldiers free of charge. He is prepared to furnish blank forms of all descriptions upon application, and will cheerfully give information as to the proper manner of making out accounts. By applying to him the soldier will save both time and money; for his office being at Washington City, he is daily in communication with the Disbursing and Auditing Departments, which enables him at once to remedy any deficiency that may arise in their claims. Local Claim Agents, of course, expect compensation for their time and lapor, and the soldier, by employing them, in addition to the expense, is employing a remote medium of communication with the Departments at Washington, necessarily attended with delay. The State has also employed Local Agents at Louisville, Ky., Col. John W. Gault and Col. W. De B. Morrill, who will cheerfully render information and assistance to soldiers having claims due them by the Government free of charge. The U. S. Sanitary Commission, which has been the constant friend of the soldier through out the rebellion, has established a Claim Agency at Washington, with Local Agents through the different States, and they earnestly invite all oldiers to confide to their Agents the collection and settlement of their accounts free of charge. A list of their Agents in Kentucky is hereunto

The Organization of the House.

The exciting discussion with regard to the admission of Southern members into the next Congress, at present being carried on by the public press, almost absorbing the entire attention of some leading papers, seems to us a waste of words and energies. And worse, it is certainly unwise and impolitic As a mere partisan discussion it could work no harm as it could only inure to the benefit or damage of a party. The Art of Pruning.

Grafting, budding, pruning, are all arts that must be acquired like any other art or work of skill. A pruner must understand why he prunes, and never cut a limb with out first being fully aware of the effect. Yet pruning is mostly done at random-a here and a limb there is cut away, the top lessened, and that is all. The fruitful ness of the tree is not improved, and it look as a systematic work, such as nature builds most decidedly injured. It is idle for any man of common sense to employ an itinerant pruner. They are often ignorant of the first principles of the art, and generally do more harm than good. If you doubt it ask the question of one when he is to cut off a limb:-"What for?" If he can answer that to your satisfaction he possibly understands his business, provided you can answer the question yourself. Never cut away a limb without first asking and answering that question-what for?

If you understand the art you may have trees of any desired form, and always of handsome shape. The right time to prune is in the growing season, the time when wounds heal the most readily. The time to begin is in the first year's growth in the nursery; not to trim up sprouts to grow whipstalked, but to shape the trees just as nature intended the particular species to grow. It an apple tree, a short bole, with a round symmetrical head; if a pear tree, a somewhat longer bole, with a top shaped like a well formed slim haystack. As a general rule in pruning study symmetry; it is the first law of beauty. If you cannot see it otherwise try it upon yourself, top off a right ear or a left eye, a right hand, and so on, just as some pruners do the symmetrical beauties of a tree. In pruning all sorts of fruit trees keep "What for?" constantly before your

There is a tendency to over-prune among all amateur fruit growers, and more particularly among all who are just beginning to grow shrubs and trees. There is no practice that needs reform more than this one. There is no quicker way of spoiling such trees than this injudicious over-pruning. There is not one forest tree in ten that will bear the eternal clipping to which some are subjected. Autumn seems to be the most favorite time for this sort of vandalism. There is nothing like the let alone system, and, above all, for all sorts of evergreen trees. With very little assistance nature will do all the pruning that is required. Of evergreens do not cut away the lower limbs till you make your tree like a big broom with the handle stuck in the ground. In all pruning of fruit or ornamental trees, or shrubs or vines, do not make a cut till you think what for, with what object, and what will be the effect. This is always necessary to prevent over-pruning.

Never prune an apple tree in the months of March, April or May. All the borers in the world do not commit half the havoc in our orchards that the pruning knife and saw do, applied at the wrong season of the Fruit Improved by Thinning.

The flavor of fruit, barring extreme sun less seasons, is entirely under the control of the gardener. A clever man can command flavor; a dull man, when he finds his fruit flavorless, makes idle excuses, which should never be listened to. If a tree trained to a wall be allowed to ripen, say ten dozen of fruit, when five or six dozen only should have been left, they, although they may be cutting. of a fair size and color, suffer in flavor to an extent scarcely credible. How often has the gardener had occasion to complain of his pears not being good, although produced on fine trees trained against walls? He complains of the season; but it is in most cases owing to the trees being allowed to bear just double the number they ought to have done. The following ought to be inscribed on every wall, and in every orchard house: By thinning you make indifferent fruit good. By crowding you make good fruit bad. It very fine and high flavored fruit is wished for, a tree capable of bearing three dozen of me- various kinds of manufactured tobacco is dium sized peaches should be allowed to correct in principle, and as nearly just and bear only twelve or fifteen. #### Weeds in Gravel Walks.

We have frequent inquiries on this subject. There are different modes of preventing their growth. When thoroughly constructed by first digging a trench a foot deep, and then filling it with gravel or fine broken stone, thoroughly rammed down before the fine gravel is applied to the surface, it will be a long time before weeds will have much foothold. The grass will, however, gradually work in at the edges, the fine roots passing between the stone and among the gravel it assumes the character of soil, and small seeds in wet weather will take root. If the walk has been made by merely cutting a more speedily infest it, and the only way to ed. The remaining verses were as follows get rid of them is by the use of a sharp hoe, garden rake and heavy roller.

Very durable walks, which will neither wash nor allow the growth of weeds, are made by mixing coarse gravel or sand with The latter being water proof, such walks are never broken by frost. But there is one serious inconvenience—in hot weather the odor of the tar is decidedly offensive, and this result continues even for years after they are constructed. A covering with an inch or two of the gravel lessens or nearly destroys this bad effect, and the tar below prevents weeds from finding their way upward. Where broken stone is used the weeds the service, it was desired again by all the may be prevented from growing by applying water-lime cement. If the sharpest and wept—declaring that the lines were too cleanest sand is used with the best water-moving. The street railway companies of Detroit have doubled the fare for passengers after ten o'clock at night—a warning to theatreThe Cattle Plague.

Minister Clay has addressed a letter to the ecretary of State, dated St. Petersburg, Oct. 17th in which he says: "I deem it my duty to warn the United States against the importation of the cattle plague into our coun-

ry. Being a farmer, and feeling great in erest in such subjects, I have read everyhing upon the subject which is accessible and I will give you only the result of my onclusions and observations. The cattle plague is the Russian pest. In this country it is always more or less prevalent, and generally kills whole herds. Like cholera, it is both contagious and infectious. By these terms I mean to say that it is communicated from one animal to another by the physical imposition of the virus upon any animal from any object containing the virus, and also that the virus may be carried in moleules in the air, and thus produce the disease. It evidently did not originate de novo n England, but was carried there by the ship oads of cattle from the Russian Baltic ports If this theory is correct, then all importaion of cattle from abroad should be at once prohibited by Congress, if not otherwise pos-sible to be prevented. And it would pay well to call Congress together for that purpose only. No ship having a cow or sheep or animal from Europe, or countries having the pest, should be allowed to land in America without sufficient quarantine. Every disease must, at some time, have originated from a violent disregard of the natural laws, and this as well as others. But I am of the opinion that there is nothing in the management of cattle in Great Britain or America to generate the disease, so, also, no sanitary precaution can arrest it short of absolute non-intercourse. I believe it to be a species of bloody murrain, aggravated by the marshy nature of Northern Russia, and the utter disregard of all the laws of health, which is shown to man and beast, especially in regard to ventilation and cleanliness, which prevails in that cold climate, where a great expenditure of heat is needed and fuel and food ture to generate the disease, so, also, no sanitary scarce. The same causes are producing now the aggregated typhus fever here, which i called outside of Russia the "plague." Eng land was warned, long since, of the danger of direct importation of cattle from Russia, but failed to heed the advice. I trust our country may be more wise and more fortunate.

CONVENTION AT HARTFORD.

A meeting of the Connecticut Tobacco Growers' Association was held in Hartford on the 2d inst. Jabez E. Allen, of East Windsor, presided. The object of the association is to collect information relating to the cultivation, curing, warehousing, speculative sales, export, manufacture and consumption of tobacco grown in Connecticut; to trace accurately the influence of legislation upon the growth, export, and consump ion of the crop; and to protect the interests of growers in all the varied branches of heir business both at home and abroad.

It was voted to distribute a circular among obacco-growers, calling for information on the following subjects:

1. The kind of soil most successfully employed by you in obtaining a crop.
